In Indiana, farmers and landowners seeking to obtain a black vulture depredation permit must be active members of the Indiana Farm Bureau. This membership requirement ensures that permit holders have access to current agricultural resources, best management practices, and support networks while addressing wildlife conflicts on their properties. The Indiana Farm Bureau membership serves as a qualification that demonstrates the applicant's commitment to agricultural stewardship and provides a direct connection to the farming community. Annual membership is $36 and is payable online at <https://join.infarmbureau.org/>.*
