INFB PACs endorse 83 candidates

Indiana Farm Bureau’s ELECT and AgELECT – the organization’s federal and state-level, nonpartisan political action committees (PACs) – have endorsed 83 candidates for the 2026 general election.

“Indiana Farm Bureau endorsements are taken very seriously as a part of the organization’s grassroots advocacy effort,” said INFB President Randy Kron. “The goal of our PACs is to back candidates who are willing to listen and engage in issues impacting agriculture. We rely on public officials who will advocate on behalf of Hoosier agriculture and serve as our voice at the Statehouse and in Washington, D.C.”

INFB ELECT and AgELECT endorsements are determined through a robust grassroots process led by county leaders, who conduct candidate interviews and present recommendations to the oversight committee and the INFB board of directors.

An endorsement from INFB is recognition of a candidate’s support of policies that will foster a positive environment for agriculture and rural communities.

If you need to register to vote, or you’re not sure if you’re registered, you might still have time to do something about it, depending on when you read this issue. The deadline in Indiana to register to vote on Nov. 3 is Monday, Oct. 5. This includes registering in person, by mail or online. Those who wish to vote absentee need to make their request for a postal ballot by Thursday, Oct. 22, or make an in-person request by noon on Monday, Nov. 2.

You can check your registration status, register to vote or find the answers to many voting questions at the Indiana voter portal, www.indianavoters.in.gov.
