

J. Turner

Wetlands Section Chief

Indiana Department of Environmental Management

J. Turner has a Bachelor of Science in Biology from Iowa State University including research looking at the impact of wetlands on water quality. He also has an MS in Ecology from Purdue University.

Turner spent 5 years teaching biology and microbiology at a community college in Illinois. He worked for 5 years with ecology and permitting at Indiana Department of Transportation.

Mr. Turner has worked in stream and wetland permitting at Indiana Department of Environmental Management since 2012 and is currently the Wetlands and Streams Section Chief.

